Brevity Poetry Review

Saturday, March 30, 2013

Among Her Possessions

This porcelain girl
cutting perfect circles
upon faux-ice
(the controlling arm unseen)
sweeps and swirls
to the Skater's Waltz

each note
each circuit she makes another memory

Darrell Petska is a Madison, Wisconsin writer who previously worked as a psychiatric technician/caseworker, nursing home evaluator, and university editor. His poetry can be found at San Pedro River Review, Scissors & Spackle, Red River Review, Shot Glass Journal, Modern Haiku and other publications.

Posted by Amy Pollard

+1 Recommend this on Google