

Haiku Publications: Wind Chimes; Dragonfly; HIGH/COO Press

show and tell:
the woven nest
its tiny skeleton

Wind Chimes, No. 8, Spring 1983

Oh summer moon
tonight my daughter's arms reached clear around me

Wind Chimes, No. 6, Fall 1982

my hand on her womb
as she pats into shape
a yeast bread loaf

Wind Chimes, No. 6, Fall 1982

skirting the puddle
an earthworm passes this way—and a barnyard hen

Dragonfly, July 1982

endless summer heat
on the scum of the stock tank a dead hen floating

Dragonfly, October 1981

calling it a day
the reaper shakes out his shirt golden dusk settling

Dragonfly, October 1981

morning glories bloom
old hobo chasing his hat
on the damp pavement

Dragonfly, October 1981

a soaking rain;
the widow's house
is darkened

HIGH/COO, Vol. 5, No. 19, 1981